OWOSSO FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1902.

Fordney an Insurgent.

Frank Hosford, Washington correspondent of the Grand Rapids Post-Democrat, under date of the 12th says:

"The beet sugar men are in a very dejected and ugly frame of mind.

William Alden Smith, who made a hot speech in last night's caucus against 'outside influences,' meaning the president and speaker, has calmed down today. He says:

"We have fought a good fight and would have succeeded but for the inevitable."

Fordney is still an insurgent.

He was called in conference by Speaker Henderson this afternoon and bluntly told the speaker that he was 'a last ditcher,' and that he and at least 20 others were prepared to vote with the democrats for reducing the tariff on everything if sugar is touched."

Dispatches today announce the appointment of a committee consisting of Reps. Metcalf, Dick, Taylor, Fordney and Morris to represent the beet sugar interests in a conference with Reps. Payne, Dalzell and Cannon of the ways and means committee. A conference was held yesterday but no conclusion reached and another meeting is to be held this afternoon. The ways and means committee is urging strongly a reduction of 20 per cent until Dec. 1, 1903.

Going to the Philippines

Dr. E. T. Wilson, of this city, will leave for the Philippines next week to begin two years of service in the islands. He goes with the rank of first lieutenant in the army having been awarded a contract as assistant surgeon in the army for a period of two years. Dr. Wilson made the application for the position in January of last year, taking his examination later at Fort Wayne, Detroit. The announcement of his appointment came this week Tuesday in a telegram from Surgeon General Sternberg informing him that a contract had been forwarded to him for his signature and also stating that transportation to San Francisco had been forwarded to him for use in case he signed the contract. At San Francisco he will await orders and may start at any time for the Philippines. Dr. Wilson has not yet signed the contract but has fully decided to do so and merely delays until he can get his business affairs into such shape that he can start for the Golden Gate on receipt of telegraphic orders so to do.

Dr. Wilson has been a resident of Owosso for the last five years coming here after a few years practice at Burton. He is a graduate of the Detroit School of Medicine and stands high with his brothers in the medical profession in this city as well as with the public in general. His friends on every hand are congratulating him on the experience which he will gain and he should return to the United States after his tour of duty much richer in professional experience. Mrs. Wilson will remain in the city and will continue her music classes, going to the home of her mother, Mrs. D. B. Green, on North Hickory street.

Death of Mrs. Isabella Travis.

Mrs. Isabella Travis died at her home on East Main street in this city Tuesday morning. She had been an invalid for a number of years. The funeral services were held yesterday at the home, Rev. C. H. Hanks officiating, and the body was taken to Pinckney for burial.

Mrs. Isabella Travis was born in Londonderry, Ireland, Jan. 27, 1827. Her parents were Scotch-Presbyterians, and imparted to her the strong personality, characteristic of that sturdy people.

At the age of eighteen, the deceased came to America, and in 1853 was married to Charles B. Travis at Canastota, N. Y. To them were born seven children, one of whom died in infancy.

In the spring of '65, the family moved to Petteysville, Livingston Co., Mich. On Feb. 28, 1877, Mr. Travis died, after a brief illness. The courage and faith with which the widowed mother took up the added burdens, can be appreciated only by those nearest to her.

In the fall of 1890, on account of the business interests of the sons, the mother decided to locate in Owosso, Mich., where she has since resided.

Her infirmities of many years, caused her to remain closely at home, but the friends and neighbors who were privileged to know her, testify to the influence of her strong and sweet personality. It could be truly said: "Strength and honor are her clothing; and she shall rejoice in time to come. She opened her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness. Her children arise up and call her blessed."

Six children survive her, four of whom live in this city where they are well known. They are R. Emmet Travis, Chas. F. Travis and Misses Elizabeth and Vina Travis.
